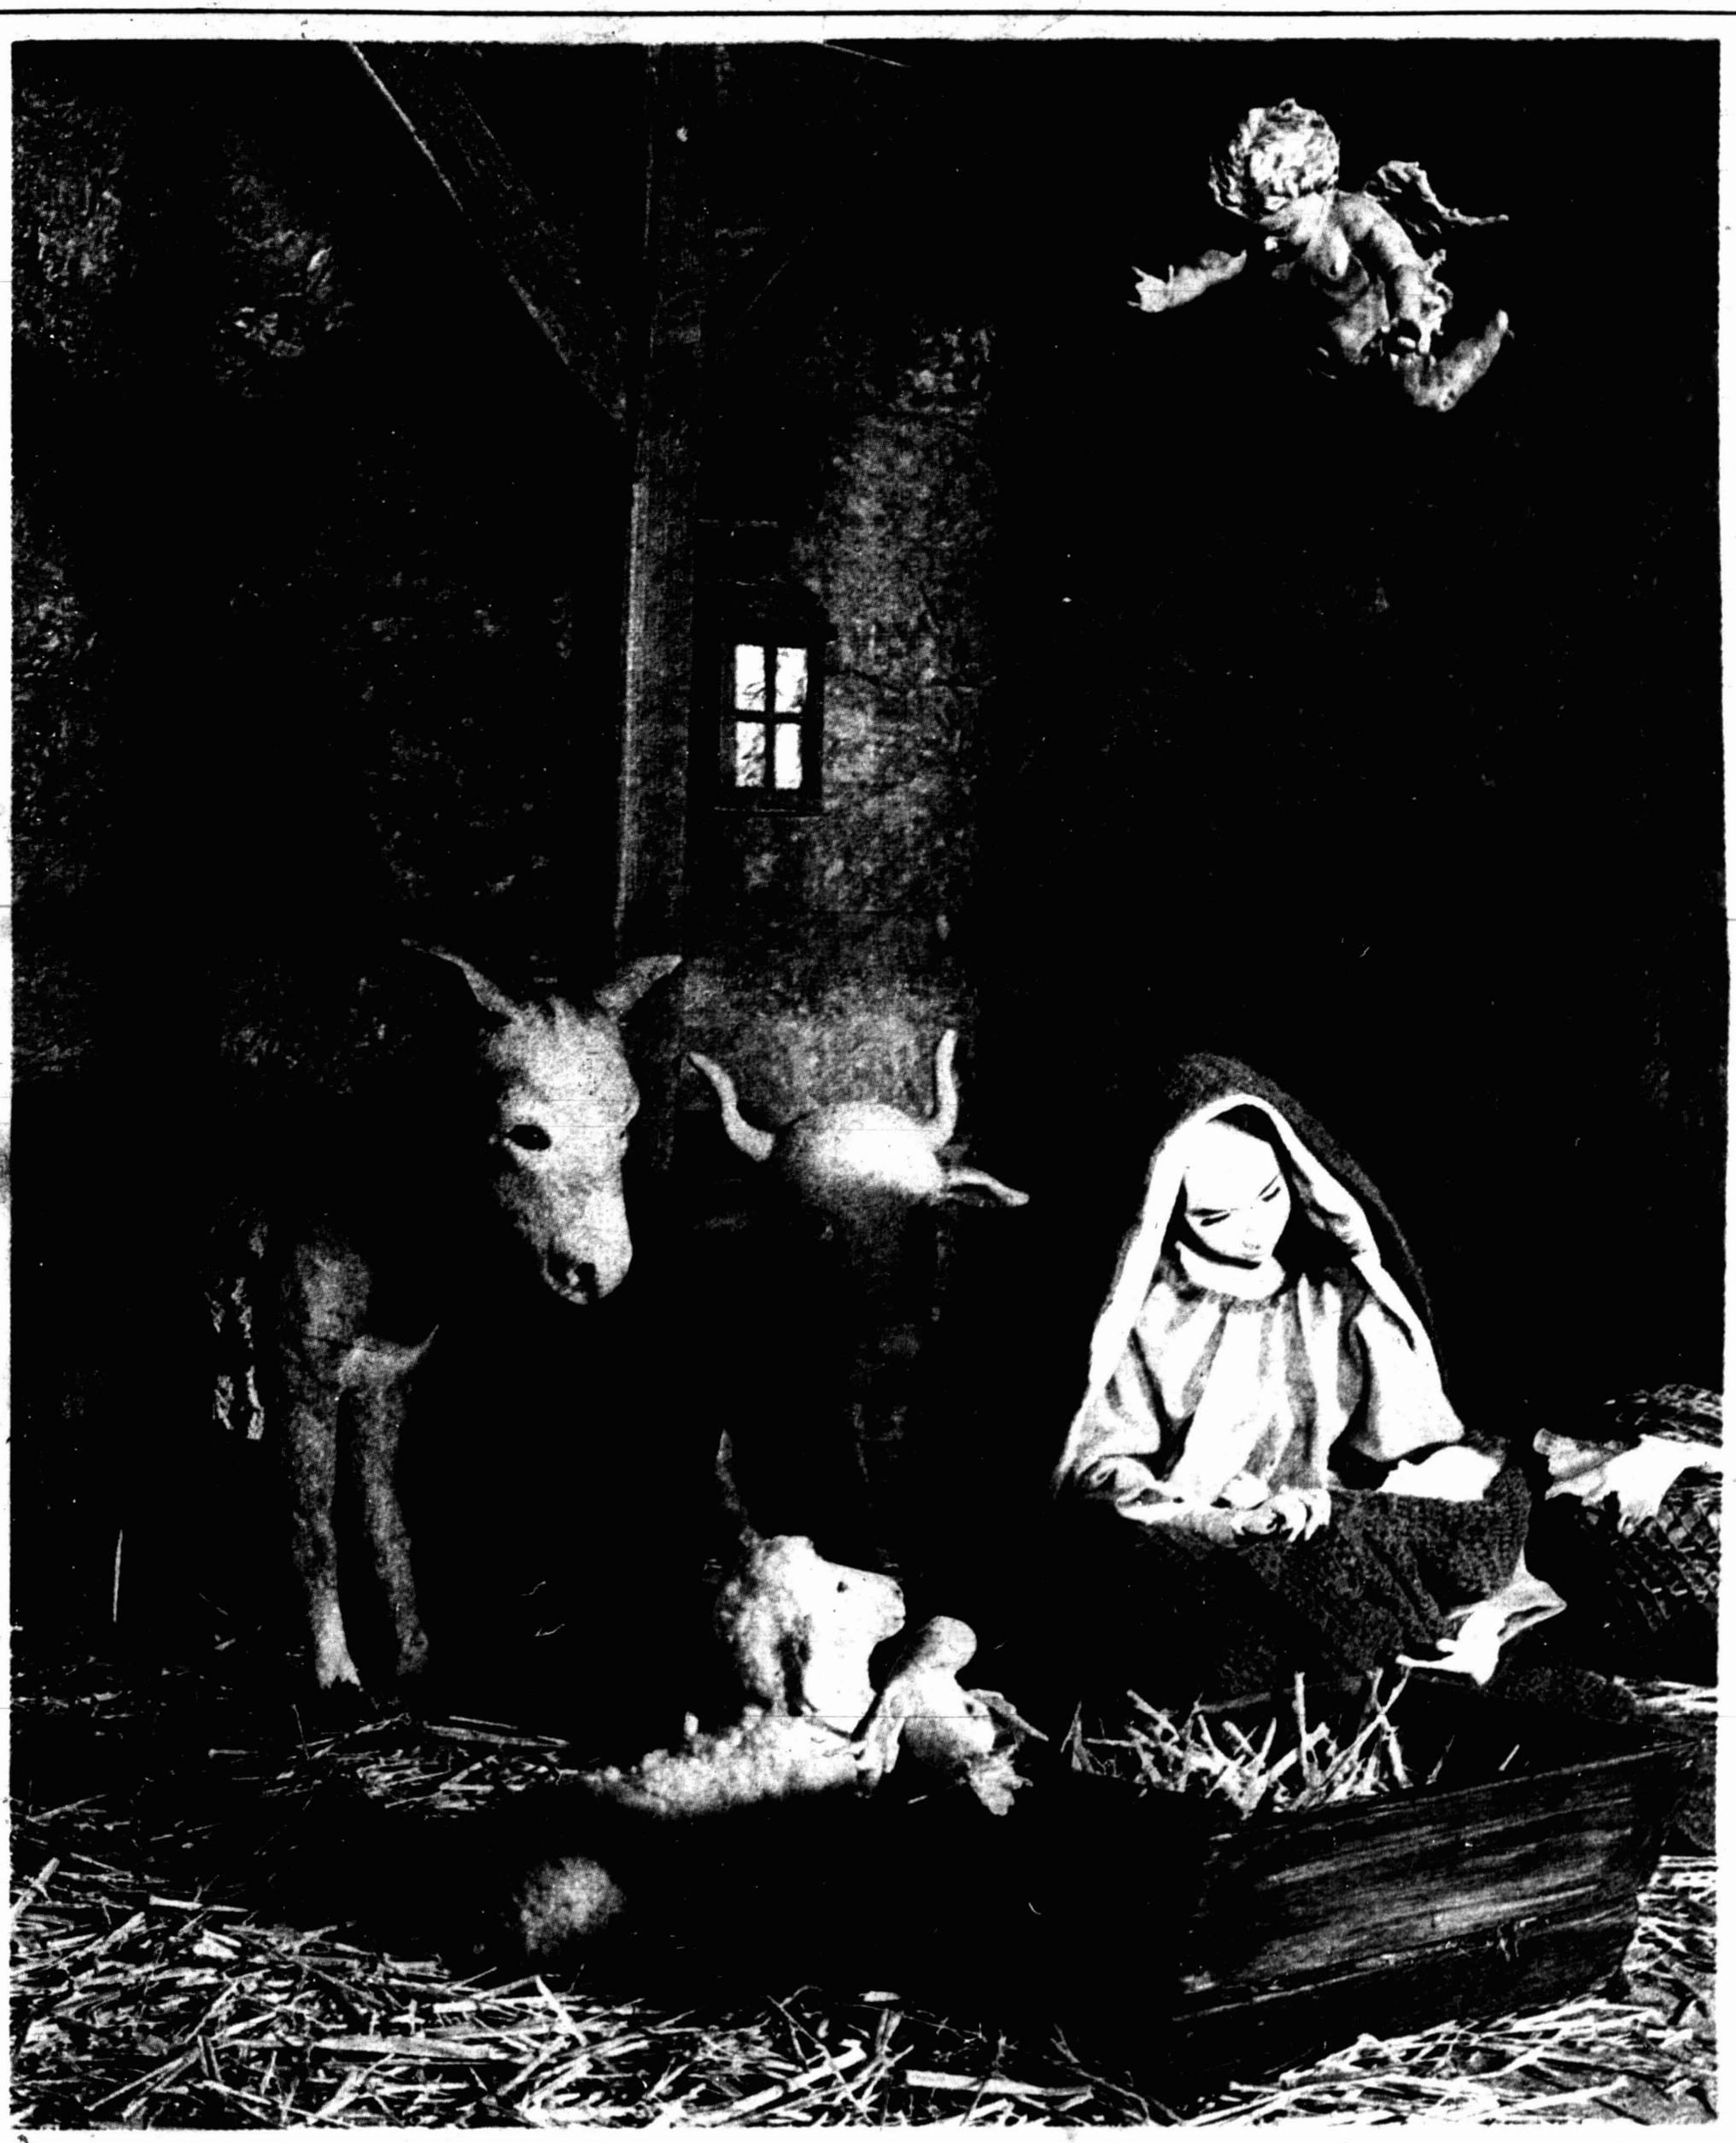
The Carmel Pine Cone

VOL. 55, No. 52 PRICE 15¢ PUBLISHED WEEKLY AT CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA, CALIFORNIA 24 pages DECEMBER 22, 1969



Nativity scene by Edyth Plamondon, Ektachrome by Roger Fremier

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of heavenly host praising God and saying

"Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men."

And it came to pass, as the angels were gone into heaven, the shepherds said to one another,

"Let us now go even unto Bethlehem and see this thing which is come to pass, which the Lord hath made known to us."

And they came with haste and found Mary, Joseph, and the babe lying in a manger.

CUSD votes for BofE student

The Carmel Unified School District board of education announced that a high school student will sit with the board as a non-voting member in a year long trial period beginning next February.

The board also requested at their recent session that an alternate student member be appointed to attend each meeting with the representative in order to keep a continuity of attendance if the student representative were absent.

The students also will have the opportunity to request study sessions with the Board when and if a major topic involving high school students arises.

The president of Carmel High School's student body, Jim Heisinger, said that he was happy with the board communication plan and hoped the representative chosen would reflect the interests of all the students of Carmel High.

Board member James Miller felt that a committee was needed to review the effectiveness of present leisure activities for students. He was interested in the sort of programs students themselves wanted and felt that students should be able to sit on a fact finding committee.

The board also adopted a revised regulation of a ruling that allowed six days of sick leave to be used durng the school year.

It was also suggested by Hilton Bialek under information items that the material covered last week at San Francisco's California School Board Convention be shared with teachers and administrators in the district.

Bialek mentioned in particular the educational ideas expressed by Dr. William Glasser, author and psychiatrist.

Glasser covered items such as the inadequacy of school testing and the F grade, the failing role which handicaps many students today and the guidelines that should determine an A or B grade.

Bialek quoted Dr. Glasser as saying, "...An A student is a student who forgets the material he studied five minutes after an exam, while an F student forgets the material five minutes before..."

Beacon House

Mrs. Elynore O'Brien, recently appointed administrator of Beacon House, the non-profit center for alcoholic rehabilitation, has announced a community wide appeal for financial support.

"Tax-deductible contributions to the 14-year-old Pacific Grove recovery house will be used to underwrite its expenses," Mrs. O'Brien said.

On the job for slightly over a month, the new administrator has been faced with the problems of inflation and deficit spending which plague all community institutions.

"It is customary for us to write friends and former residents at this time of year seeking their contributions.

"In addition, this year we are launching a public appeal to those people on the Peninsula who might wish to help relieve the financial pressures hindering us."

Planning group seeks new guidelines for home construction laws in canyon areas

City government in Carmel has been troubled during recent years by increasing numbers of requests for permits to build houses on steeply rising lots which once were thought to be unbuildable sites.

City concern was specifically brought to the attention of the Carmel Planning Commission at last week's meeting when Councilman Eben Whittlesey's proposals in an attempt to reach a solution of the treatment of what were identified as 'canyon areas', was heard.

Many of these 'canyon areas' are the tree-studded rear slopes of over-sized building sites, which old-time Carmelites generally thought would always remain in their natural wooded state.

Whittlesey suggests that consideration be given to the use of accumulated hostelry tax funds, intended for 'green belt' purchase, to acquire some unused canyon areas when owners of the properties involved, would be willing to sell and the City willing to buy.

He also proposes, as an alternative, that the City seek what are called "scenic easement" agreements from owners who might not want to sell unused or unuseable portions of their lots, but who might be willing to guarantee that no structures would be built upon them.

Another portion of the Whittlesey proposal suggests that new and stiffer residential building requirements could be enacted to discourage speculative construction on sites which, in the past, would have been thought to be only marginal building sites.

Planning Commission Chairman Charles McEwen referred the Whittlesey proposal to the Commission's planning and conservation committee for study and report. Consideration of this matter brings up the larger one which concerns the entire urban forest.

Many years ago Carmel decided to do much more than cities usually do about the establishment of its own special municipal environment.

It decided not just to have parks, but actually to live in its own forest. Naturally this forest environment encompasses not just city-owned land, but also all the land upon which an increasing number of homes have been, and continue to be, built.

Today Carmel has a city forestry commission, and it now employs a professional city forester, Robert Tate, and it is most urgent that all possible steps be taken to aid and abet that commission's effort and that forester's care of the city's threatened urban forest, – and not just the part but also that the privately owned portion of the forest.

Display of merchandise in front of stores in the business district, which seems through the years to be a recurring matter of concern, became the subject once more of Planning Commission attention after the City Council rejected an earlier proposal, and asked the Commission to restudy the question of outdoor merchandise display still another time.

A public hearing on a new ordinance to deal with such display was set for public hearing at the Jan. 21 meeting of the Commission. This proposed ordinance attempts to spell out in some detail just what kinds of display should be permitted.

A revision of off-street parking requirements to apply in residential areas came before the Commission, and was referred to an ad hoc committee for study and report.

A suggestion from the City Fire Department that the Commission require that awnings in front of stores be of a "fire retardent" type was accepted and will become a part of the considerations included in the Commission's regular design-review work.

A request from Richard P. Richardson that the Commission consider lowering the 6,000-square-foot minimum lot requirements for irregularly shaped residential lots, did not win Commission approval.

The request of Dr. Donald Stiff to establish two recognized building sites out of portions of three lots on the west side of Monte Verde street, north of 4th, was referred to the Commission's land-use committee for its consideration.

Village Theater will try family picture again; to present 'Doctor Dolittle'

by Lynn Pearson

The big discussion in the entertainment business today is the prevalence of sex, violence and nudity in the films being produced nationally and internationally.

The ratings "R" and "X" for "restricted" and "children barred" almost automatically assure the financial success of a picture.

A family rating is the kiss of economic death of exhibitors.

May I point to some local examples.

Two weeks ago Tom Graff of the Village Theater in Carmel booked Julie Andrews in "Star!" a family picture highly recommended by all raters as an artistic success.

The film played only to mediocre business, and even when Graff added a second feature and held a program for another week, business was bad.

The following week, the Village offered one of the great pictures of the decade, one highly recommended by Parents Magazine and other rating agencies as being great family entertainment – "The Bible."

In the parlance of Variety Magazine, "The Bible" bombed.

The film was offered in a special three-day showing, and the theater was practically empty all three nights despite a concentrated promotion campaign.

Where were all the people who re compalining about the quality of motion pictures today?

Probably at home watching TV.

It's becoming a truism among film exhibitors that the older teens and the very young adults are the only people who go to movies these days.

Apparently, they like the "R" and "X" rated pictures.

Anyway, Graff is going to make one more try.

Beginning on Tuesday, Dec. 30 at 2 p.m., and running until Saturday, Jan.3, the Village Theater in Carmel will show a special children's picture, "Doctor Doolittle."

HEre is one of the finest "all-family" films ever produced.

Hugh Lofting wrote the classic stories, set in the late 19th century, about the gentle doctor who experiences a whole set of fabulous adventures because of his unique ability.

Once again, the special matinee showings of "Doctor Doolittle" begin at 2 p.m. and are over at 4:30. Regular admission prices will prevail for all five performances.

DIVERSE DISPLAY –Members of Carmel High School's humanities classes peruse the photographs and artifacts created by AlexanderWeygers. The Java born artist designed and built his Carmel Valley studio-house and workshop in 1944. His workshop-living quarters complex, built, like almost everything else he owns, from scrap and discarded materials, was once described by a newspaperman as "a cross between a log cabin and the Brown Derby." In his unique workshop he has fashioned sculpture in stone and wood, tools and kitchen utensils. He has also done unique work in photography which he calls Artography. This is the abstract form that emerges in super close-up photographs of light rays refracted by water and other substances.Weygers holds open house every Sunday from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. Visitors are requested to call first to set up an appointment.

AN ARTIST'S VIEW – Alexander Weygers gives visitors from Carmel High School's humanities classes his opinions on life, the arts, religion and the establishment on the grounds of his Carmel Valley house and studio. The students are currently studying Florence and the Rennaissance Man. They requested a visit with Weygers, who has been called a modern day Leonardo Da Vinci. The Carmel Valley artistt is a photographer, sculptor, artisan, engineer and inventor.

CONTEMPORARY JOSEPH – Dale Diggs as a modern day Joseph shakes the hand of Lieutenant John Waterton of the Salvation Army who has promised to find him a room for the night. Dale and other members of the Senior High Fellowship of the Carmel Presbyterian Church presented a contemporary Christmas pageant Sunday Dec. 21. The program illustrated the need for emergency housing and job opportunities on the Peninsula.

Science foundation grant to make math institute possible

For the third straight summer, 50 secondary school teachers will have the chance to "brush up" on mathematics, thanks to a National Science Foundation grant in the amount of $58,165 to the School of Natural Sciences and Mathematics at San Jose State College.

The money will provide stipends for a six-week Summer Institute at SJSC beginning June 22-July 31, 1970. Dr. James R. Smart, professor of mathematics, will serve as the Institute's Project Director.

"All teachers who participate in this program are not specialists in the field of mathematics. They majored in some other area of study while at college. But because of increasing high school enrollments s they have been forced to instruct classes in mathematics," explained Dr. Smart.

Home and away for Christmas

Home after vacationing in the British West Indies are Mr. and Mrs. Clive Rayne of Carmel. The Raynes sailed to Barbados making calls en route at Acapulco, Balboa, Cristobal and Curacao.

Mr. and Mrs. James F. van Loben also of Carmel have returned from a six week trip to Nairobi which included visits to Johannesburg, and Capetown as well as stops in South America where they toured, Rio de Janeiro, Brazil and Lima, Peru.

The Edward Hogans of Carmel Valley plan a three week European holiday and Maj. and Mrs. John Robotti have flown to Mexico City for a two weeks stay.

The Jon Elbers are dividing their Christmas holiday between Carmel and Santa Cruz visiting their parents.

The San Francisco Bay Area will be holiday headquarters for Nicola Radovich who will be visiting his sister there, and George Davis of Carmel will spend some time in San Jose this Christmas.

During their absence, the homes of Carmel vacationers will be occupied by families or friends planning to enjoy a Carmel Christmas.

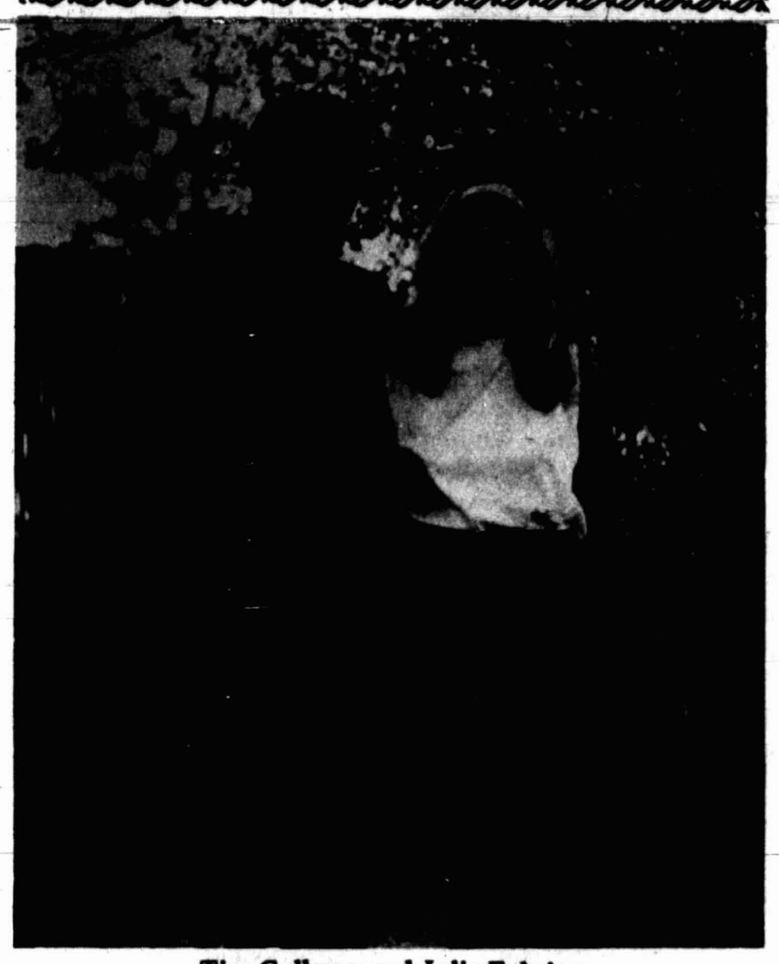
Wedding Bells



Tim Gallwey and Julie Fehring

Mrs. Charles M. Strosnider

Virginia City is setting for Wedding of Charles and Nicole

Mrs. Nicole Altair has announced the marriage of her daughter, Nicole June to Charles M. Strosnider.

The ceremony took place in Virginia City, Nevada on Dec. 5. Judge Edward Colletti officiated.

Mrs. Strosnider has been a Carmel resident for a number of years. Her mother operates the Nicole Altair perfume shop.

The couple plan to continue to make their home in Carmel.

Ceremony has a Swedish touch

The Carmel Mission Basilica provided the setting for a wedding with a Swedish touch for Brigitta Enid Thoreel of Sweden and Charles John Paul Betz of Pebble Beach on Dec. 6. The Rev. John P. Kavanaugh performed the ceremony.

The new Mrs. Betz is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erik Thorell of Solleron, Sweden. She is a Pan-American stewardess and attended the University of Stockholm and Uppsala University in Sweden.

Charles also attended Uppsala University and is a graduate of Sierra High School. He is now attending San Jose State College.

Birgitta chose for her wedding an ivory organiza gown appliqued with tiny petals of Alencon lace embossed with seed pearls and designed with a matching train. A Swedish cap held her should length veil. She carried a bouquet of white daisies.

Her attendants wore authentic Swedish costumes of black pleated skirts, red aprons and embroidered long sleeved blouses. They carried bouquets of daisies and red roses.

Engagement is announced at Carmel party

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Fehring of Carmel announced the engagement of their daughter, Julie at a gathering of family and friends last week.

Miss Fehring is a Carmel High School graduate and is attending Stanford University where she is majoring in Latin-American studies. On Dec. 29 shee will leave for six months of study at Stanford-in-Britain at Clivedon, England.

The future bride is the sister of Mrs. David Sanford (Janet Fehring) of Balitomre, Md.; Mrs. David Davini (Jean Fehring) of Yuba City; Mrs. Gordon Roberts (Joy Fehring) of Davis and Jo Ann Fehring, a Carmel High School senior.

Timothy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Gallwey of Carmel. He attended Town School, San Francisco and George's School, Newport, R.I. In 1960 he graduated from Harvard University. He is presently doing graduate work in college administration at Claremont Graduate School, Claremont.

Timothy has two sisters, Mrs. Herny F. McCusker (Mimi Gallwey) and Mrs. William Niles Wishard III (Mary Gallwey). He is the nephew of Mr. and Mrs. John Grissim Jr. and Mrs. Eugene Von Teuber of Carmel.

The couple plan to marry in the late fall of 1970.

'Wooden Saints' are true folk art of Southwest

New Mexican Retablos or Wooden Saints" make up he special Bicentennial 'hristmas exhibition of the 'acific Grove Museum of Jatural History.

The collection comes orm the Taylor Museum of he Colorado Springs Fine Arts Center, being loaned specially for the Monterey Bicentennial celebration.

Portions of he collection vere originally scheduled or showing in the American 'avillion in Osaka, Japan, ut planned exhibitons vithin the owning museum precluded the Expo 70 howing.

The collection has special ocal meaning since the bjects originated from nother Spanish province paralleling the Spanish etting of California.

The santos of Northern lew Mexico and Southern olorado are remarkable xamples of folk art which ourished for a 150 year eriod beginning about the iddle of the 18th century. hey were produced by mericans of Spanish descent, not Indians as is popularly believed. The objects were produced in this remote outpost of Spain because sufficient religious materials were not possible to obtain from the Mexican caravan routes. These "homemade" saints have been called the most important manifestation of folk art in this country.

The word Santo is a special Spanish generic name for any sacred image. A sculpture in the round is a bulto usually carved in sections from the soft root of the cottonwood tree. These objects were coated with gesso made of burned gypsum and animal glue.

They were then painted in water-soluble tempera which was sometimes covered with native rosin varnish. Pigments were partly imported from Mexico.

A Retablo, as the objects in this exhibition are properly called, is a painted flat image which usually refers to pine panels painted in the same manner as bultos.

A notable exception is La Conquistadora, a figure of Our Lady of the Rosary, which came to Santa Fe in 1625 and can be seen in the Cathedral of St. Francis.

The earliest dated materials of definite New Mexican manufacture were painted within the second half of the 18th century.

The exhibition is scheduled through January. The museum is open daily from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. except Monday. The museum will be closed Christmas and New Year's Day.

Music scholarships at MPC

A number of $200 instrumental music scholarships are available fro the spring semester to junior college students, graduating high school seniors and others who qualify for admission to Monterey Peninsula College, Dr. Harvey Marshall, MPC music department chairman announced.

The scholarships, funded by the Monterey Jazz Festival, will be awarded to winners of auditions to be held Wednesday, Jan. 7, in the college music hall. The winners, who will receive five monthly payments beginning in February, are expected to major or minor in music at MPC and will be expected to show, in monthly scholarship evaluations, that they are earning grades in music courses averaging 2.2.

Performers on brass, woodwind, percussion instruments, strings or piano are eligible to apply. Audition judges will be members of the college's music department: Marshall, John Erickson, Henry Smith and Dan Haerle. A statement of need will weigh in the judges' decision when talent and proficiency appear to be equal.

Application blanks, which may be obtained from Dr. Marshall by writing him at MPC, 980 Fremont, Monterey, must be submitted to him before January 5. Also required will be a high school transcript (sent separately by school registrar, if necessary).

Deadline nears for NPGS Religous art show entry

The deadline for the Seventh Annual Religious Art Show at the Naval Postgraduate School is drawing near. Closing dates for entries are Jan. 9, 10, and 11.

This year's judges will be Leslie Emery, a painter who exhibits in Carmel; Ellwood Graham, painter and president of the Carmel Art Association; and Gordon Newell, Monterey sculptor who just completed fountains for the White House.

The 1970 Religious Art Show has drawn attention from artists as far away as Maryland, Virginia, Seattle, and Los Angeles, so artists interested in showing their works are encouraged to enter now.

©COPYRIGHT 1969 SAFEWAY STORES, INCORPORATED

CRITICAL SURVEY – Assistant Carmel Postmaster Bill Woolsey, left, and Mel Taylor, superintendant of mail, check a load of incoming mail with looks bordering on utter futility. But the entire Carmel post office crew jumps in and gets it sorted, binned and ready for delivery or to be put into boxes in the post office. This is all done with an unfailing good humor, despite the bustle, the crowds, the failure of patrons to read plainly posted instructions, despite everything that can go wrong going wrong.

A BIG LOAD OF MAIL – Throughout the year, the Carmel post office is a busy place, but at Christmas time, the whole thing takes on an unreal air of almost nightmarish proportions. The main reason is the cramped post office, too small under normal circumstances, but truly impossible during the Christmas rush. Seasonal employees try to bring some kind of order out of complete chaos as they sort an; stack a load of incoming mail.

OOOOOF – Charley Schaetzle gives a heave to a sack of mail, tossing, (if that's the word) the hundred pounds or so onto a cart so it can be loaded into the outgoing mail truck when it arrives. While full mail sacks may vary in weight by many pounds, the worst problem with the canvas bags is their awkwardness. No place to dig the fingers into, no place to grab, and it's too hard to handle them by the narrow ropes that close them. Brute, physical strength is the thing.

SURE SORTER – Irene Francis, a regular employee of the Carmel Post office, can almost distribute the mail of her fellow Carmelites blindfolded. The tremendous increase in the workload brought about by the Christmas rush imposes a terrific strain on the cramped quarters and limited facilities of the local postal agency, but when the lease on this building is up next year, it is hoped a larger, happier home can be found at Sunset Center or somewhere.

SPECIAL SERVICE – Walter Erickson, foreground, and "Slim" Leighty, maintain a special line for packages during the Christmas rush. Patrons bring them the packages, they are weighed, checked for Zip Codes, marked with the price of the postage, then turned over to the stamp seller behind the counter. A great package expediter and just another example of your Carmel post office at work to bring better service.

Barney Laiolo, First Citizen

By Jewell White

TIME really does seem to stand still in Carmel-by-the-Sea.

One can "feel" the lessening of tensions, the relaxed state of serenity when returning from the noisy, "up tight" tempo of the cities.

Even our long white beach stretches out along a nicely protected bay, and the thought comes to mind that God must have meant Carmel when he designated one spot as the now paradise, and said, "And here, too, shall come the meek, the calm, the peace-loving to reside forever."

...And it is so...those of us who live here know what he meant, and those who have lived here longer know it even better...to have protected this area, as it still is, takes a certain type of person. This is the first of a series of somewhat off-beat sketches about the fine citizens who hav contributed to the present day acceptance of Carmel as the undisputed Art Center of the world. And who could be a better choice for our first article than our won "First Citizen" HIZZHONOR ...THE MAYOR...We present now Mr. Francesco Bernardo Ercole Luigi Laiolo..Better known affectionately by all as just Barney Laiolo.

We held our interview at Laiolo's ramblinb home on San Antonio St. and it does, indeed, merit the name "CASA LAIOLO...this man's home is his castle, and evidence of gracious living is everywhere. The large, airy rooms offer many windows to view the setting sun over the flower garden, and yes, the relentless sea. Many changes were made in this house by the Laiolo's...enlarging some areas and adding a complete kitchen, with many innovations. The hi-lite of the "Dream Kitchen is a spice and condiment alcove designed by the late Mrs. Laiolo.

This alcove reflects a great talent for answering all of a home-maker's needs. Even in this advanced world of frozen foods.

And tho the "outside" world seems to be caught up into the whirling vortex of the freeway twist, Carmel still goes on, in her quiet way, blessed with so many gracious people like the Laiolos, to whom home and the fire-side will always be of prime importance.

The untimely loss of Mrs. Laiolo was a tragedy the Mayor had to live with..to try to understand WHY...and it has left him with an unusual understanding of others' misery. He has a keen knack for saying just the right ting to troubled people.

This special trait is found in very few men. How fortunate for Carmel that he chose to leave a secure job at the Fugazi Bank of San Francisco and settle here.

About a man, himself.. Barney Laiolo is a "Tall Man," as the Western sagas would say... Tall in stature and tall in character.

He is full of abundant energy and drive, and his white hair only serves to add more dignity and poise to his general image. He has three fine sons – Tony who is 21, Chris who is 19 and Linder, who is 17.

They are also tall men..and all have the innate good manners that does their mother's memory proud.

So, Casa Laiolo is a bachelor-hall ...and at least ONE room reflects this clearly. How many men can boast a TV room utterly uncluttered except for a console TV set and one leather-covered lounge chair with ottoman? But then, even this is reflective of the Carmel influence ... One

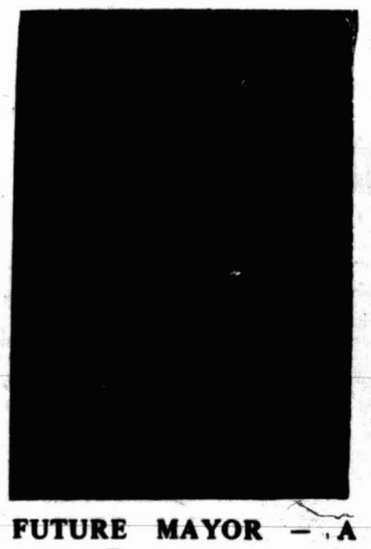
THE RELENTLESS SEA

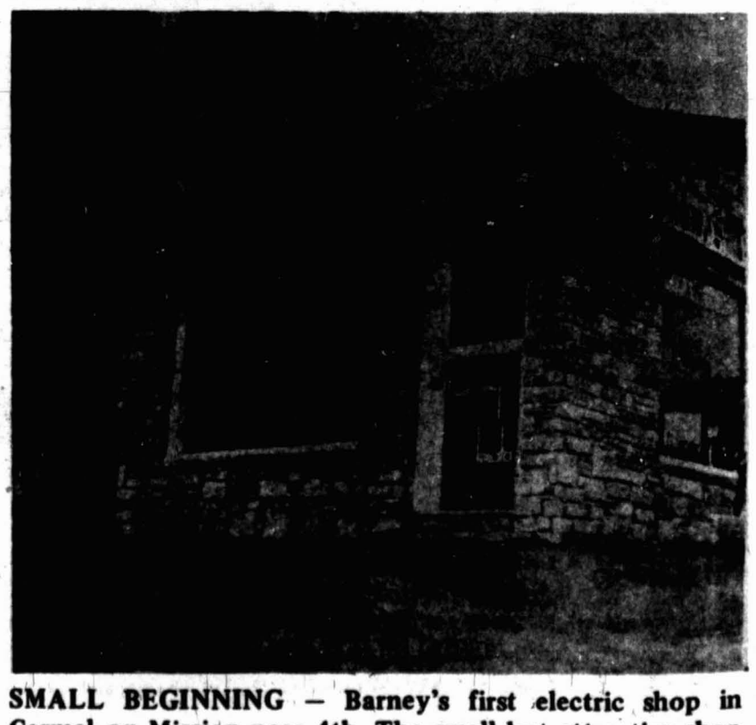
By Jewel White

The relentless sea rolls on and on
The whitecaps lapping at the shore
Like haunting dreams, that won't be gone
And pound anew at memories door.
Dreams that remember a life gone by
Or, perhaps, a life yet to come . . . but . . .
Who can really say if we live or die,
Or where our dreams come from?
The relentless sea rolls on and on
It's destiny to fulfill . . .
So flow our lives; . . Then we are gone.
Perhaps WE move . . And TIME stands still.



FUTURE MAYOR – A young Francesco Bernardo Ercole Luigi Laiolo about the time he arrived in Carmel from San Francisco.

UNIQUE LAMP SHADE – Barney Laiolo and Jewell White inspect a unique leaded glass lampshade in the mayor's home. The stained glass item was part of the interior decoration the late Mrs. Laiolo selected for their warm and comfortable home.



SMALL BEGINNING – Barney's first electric shop in Carmel on Mission near 4th. The small but attractive shop served the future Carmel mayor for many years until his expanding business forced a move.

All Saints to hold youth afternoon services Dec. 24

All Saints' Episcopal Church in Carmel will hold an afternoon service on Christmas Eve deisgned especially for children, although the entire family is urged to attend.

The service begins at 4:30 p.m. with a play-drama entitled "The Juggler of Our Lady," presented by young people of the high school.

KMST-TV will tape the play, which includes the singing of Sister Saint Christopher of Hartnell COllege. The station will then televise the program later on Christmas Eve.

The traditional "Mid-Night Mass-Choral Eucharist will begin at 11 p.m.

Prelude music by a string trio will begin at 10:30 p.m. The trio will include Christiane Taeuber, cello; Mindi Rayne, viola; and Roma Jane Sprung, violin. Included also in the pre-service music will be Mrs. Carol Klein and Dr. Gale Jacobsen on trumpets.

Father Peter Farmer will celebrate the Christmas Eve Eucharist at 9 p.m. at the Santa Lucia Chapel in Big Sur-River Village. The Chapel is located near the Post Office-General Store building.

There will also be a 10:30 a.m. celebration of the Holy Eucharist on Christmas day at All Saints.

The Sacrament of Penance, (private confession) is available Christmas Eve from 6-7 p.m. or by appointment with the clergy.

Scientists will hold double services

Christmas Eve falls at the same time as the Wednesday night testimonials for the Christian Science churches throughout the world.

The First Church of Christ, Scientists in Carmel will celebrate the double event with a one-hour meeting beginning at 8 p.m. which will include testimonials as well as appropriate readings from the Bible and the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, the founder of Christian Science.

The meeting will be conducted by Arthur Porter.

Christian Science Bible Lesson

"Behold, God exalteth by his power: who teacheth like him?"

This verse from the book of Job is included in the Lesson-Sermon "Christian Science" to be read in all churches of the denomination on Sunday.

A passage from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy reads: "For three years after my discovery, I sought the solution of this problem of Mind-healing, searched the Scriptures and read little else, kept aloof from society, and devoted time and energies to discovering a positive rule."

Services at First Church of Christ, Scientists, 6th and Monte Verde, Carmel, begin at 11 a.m. and 5 p.m. All are welcome to attend.

Christian Science Radio Program

"What Determines What You Read and See?" is the topic of next Sunday:s program in the Christian Science radio series "The Bible Speaks To You."

It may be heard over radio stations KGO at 7:15, KRML at 7:45 and KDON at 8:45.

Good Samaritans

Arthur A. Hill of Fountain View is looking for the couple who so kindly gave his son a ride home from near Carmel to San Jose on Nov. 29 after his car had struck a deer.

He would be deeply appreciative if the ocuple would contact him at 1171 Outsta Drive, Mountain View, Calif., 94040, or call 967-4373, area code 415.

A Christmas tree can certainly help to make the season bright, but some precautions should be taken, says Liberty Mutual Insurance Companies. Check all lights for frayed wires and short circuits. Discard home-repaired and other dangerous electrical equipment. A few bulbs can go a long way toward brightening the season and save electrical circuits unwanted strain.

Hospitality In Marsala

A new kind of hospitality is being offered at Marsala. Foreign tourists are received by local families and thus have an authentic, direct contact with Sicilian customs. The initiative, which is called "Feel at Home" is certain to be of interest to foreign tourists who go to Sicily. It is a good chance to get to know the Italians, their way of life, and their good qualities and defects first hand. Take advantage of it.

Special Restaurant

A new restaurant has been opened in Rome (Via Oxilia 4, corner of Viale Parioli) that foreign tourists in particular should not overlook. It offers an Italian menu and a second menu of foreign specialties. Wednesday Spanish or Greek dishes are offered, Thursday German or North American. Friday French, Saturday Russian, and Sunday Hungarian and Yugoslavian. Tuesdays are set aside for Italian regional dishes; each Tuesday is dedicated to a different region. The restaurant is closed Mondays. It is open after the theater and the price of meals ranges from two to three thousand lire.

Residence in Calabria

One of the most recent accomplishments in the field of tourism in Calabria is the "Altafiumara" complex at Santa Trada, five kilometers from Villa San Giovanni. Santa Trada is a panoramic hill on the Strait of Messina and it dominates the projection of the Calabrian coast that is closest to Sicily. The center is composed of three elements: the first is a 19th-century Bourbon castle that has been transformed into a hotel, a panormaic restaurant and night club; the second is a residential center with various services; and the third is a hotel with five hundred rooms, terraces and gardens.

The center already has two tennis courts, an Olympic swimming pool, and a volleyball court. Soon it will have a small port for pleasure craft. The complex is already linked by road to the Autostrada del Sole (the Scylla-Reggio Clabria tract that has been open for some time). The prices at the castle range from a minimum of 5,000 lire to a maximum of 6,000 lire; complete board form 6,000 to 7,000 lire. The prices of the residential center range from 4,000 to 5,000 lire; complete board from 6,500 to 8,000 lire. The nearest tourist spots are: Scylla (4 km.) Reggio Calabria (19 km.), Bagnara Calabra (15 km.), Gambarie D' Aspromonte (28 km.). Beyond the strait it is possible to see the Aeolian Islands. Sicily can be reached in just a short time from Villa San Giovanni where there is a ferry boat for Messina that takes about twenty minutes and a hydrofoil that takes eight minutes.

Art At Ravenna

In Ravenna, every spring courses on the art of Ravenna and Byzantine art are sponsored by the University of Bologna. These courses are devoted to the study of the complex questions related to early-Christian and Byzantine art in the fields of painting, sculpture and the minor arts as well as the questions concerned with the various problems that are no more specific of the art of Ravenna. No city in Italy is more suitable for this particular cultural activity than Ravenna, because it is, as everyone knows, extraordinarily rich in reminders and monuments of early-Christian and Byzantine art and because in olden times its civil and artistic history was closely connected with that of Byzantium. The ancient religious constructions which are still richly covered with brilliant mosaics from the 5th and 6th centuries, the valuable art collections in the civic museums, and the study and research opportunities offered by the Classense Library make Ravenna an ideal center for scholars who find in this "city of silence" the most favorable atmosphere for their work. The lessons are in the reliable hands of an outstanding number of Italian and foreign scholars, all of whom are college professors or well-known specialists in this field of study.

Village In Sardinia

Fifty-six kilometers from Cagliari, between Capo Ferrato and Porto Corallo is a new tourist village called "Colostrai" (the name of the zone) which has been built by Belgians. The new center, which revolves around an already functioning hotel, is a complex of small houses located in a park of pines, junipers, and mimosas. Each house contains two efficient and charming apartments. The beach between Capo Ferrato and Porto Corallo is sandy and sunny and easily accessible also from the north of the island, that is, from Olbia, which tourists can reach as conveniently as they can Cagliari.

Economy slowing

California's total production of goods and services reached $109.08 billion in November, an increase of a narrow quarter-percent in a month and 7.75% in a year, according to a report issued today by The Bank of California.

The slight monthly advance indicates that, while California's economy is continuing to rise, the rate of ascent is slowing down. Many production classifications show sizable annual gains, but these gains were made earlier in the year and have not continued in recent months.

Oliver's Observations

By Carl D. Oliver

BETCHA didn't know the bath tub was invented in 1850 and the telephone in 1875. It really must have been great, just sitting there for 25 years without the phone ringing once.

Now that you can enjoy the convenience of the telephone, the smartest thing you can do is call 373-2751, or better still, run right over to 1449 Canyon Del Rey, corner Del Monte, in Seaside. Why? Because that's where you'll find the amazing new Wearathon by Armstrong with the exclusive Druabond process, the popular indoor-outdoor carpet everybody's talking about. The place to se it, of course, is H & H Supply – Where else?In the meantime, remember – H & H means "Happy Holidays!" (And Carl Oliver means what he says.)

A second century mosaic pavement uncovered in Sicily reveals that women of that era enjoyed sports wearing scant garments closely resembling modern bikinis.

PARTY PLANS . . .

by Phyllis Jervey

"Cocktail Capers"

This is the time of year when the cocktail party replaces other types of entertaining. In our nation's capital food seems to take precedence even over protocol. "Waiting on a buffet watching all the crowds go by" could be the theme song of waiters manning Washington's constant cocktail circuit.

At the leading hotels, exclusive clubs and embassies, dips and chips do not suffice at these catered affairs.

Groaning buffets offer complete banquets featuring foreign foods typical of each embassy. Taking a cue from these experts, but with simplicity in mind, we've selected some "do-it-yourself" centerpieces that disappear rapidly.

Invite an international group of friends, easily done here on our own cosmopolitan Peninsula, to a gala UN New Year's Eve or Day celebration. Feature a world of six colorful cheese spreads, each with its own distinct, national character. Assorted crisp crackers are the natural accompaniments for this culinary journey to foreign shores.

United States: Thoroughly blend 8 oz. finely grated process American cheese; ¼ cup ketchup; 1½ t. prepared mustard; 2 T. sweet pickle relish. Set aside.

England: Mix 4 oz. finely grated natural Cheddar cheese; 1 (3 oz.) pkg. softened cream cheese; ½ cup finely chopped walnuts; ½ clove garlic, minced; 1 t. Worcestershire; 3 T. milk. Set aside.

France: Blend 2 oz. Roquefort cheese, crumbled; 1 (4 oz.) can liver pate; 2 hard cooked eggs, finely chopped; 2 T. finely chopped celery. Set aside.

Italy: Combine 8 oz. Ricotta cheese, 2 T., each snipped parsley and finely chopped ripe olives; 1 T. minced onion; ½ clove garlic, minced; ½ t., each, salt and crushed basil leaves; dash of cracked pepper. Set aside.

Switzerland: Blend 4 oz., each, finely grated, imported natural Swiss cheese and finely chopped bologna; ¼ cup sour cream; 1 T., each, mayonnaise and minced onion; ¼ t. salt. Set aside.

Holland: Combine 6 oz. finely grated Gouda or Edam cheese; ¼ cup, each, canned pickled red cabbage and sour cream. Set aside.

Or prepare an Edam Cheese Ball: Select a large one, cut off a one inch top. Remove as much cheese as possible from the inside, leaving half an inch case. Mash and season the removed cheese with horseradish, beer, mustard, Worcestershire and salt to taste. The beer does the trick. Return mixture to cheese ball. Serve in center of buffet on round revolving tray. Surround with garlic-flavored melba toast rounds with spreaders.

Mold the other cheese spreads, in wedges, in aluminum foil-lined 6-cup round bowl. Cover with plastic food wrap; refrigerate several hours. Unmold onto serving plate. Peel off foil. Serve with snack crackers and small knives.

Tantalize appetites with two-bite kebobs served on firm crackers, such as triscuits. The kebobs can be threaded on bamboo skewers then cooked over hibachi on your hearth or the edge of the grill. Pre-soak bamboo skewers in water for at least an hour to prevent burning.

Kebob is a Turkish word meaning broiled meat. This technique for cooking can be traced back to the Caucasus mountains where meat was impaled on swords and roasted over open fires. And even further back to the first grilling of bits of meat strung on sticks. Not only is kebob cookery spectacular, but the combinations of food and savory marinades are limitless. Use filet of beef tidbits for deluxe offering.

Marinade for Kebobs: 1 cup olive oil; 4 t. cider vinegar; ¼ cup, each, fresh lemon juice and honey; 1 t. salt; 1¼ t. ground ginger; 2 T. grated orange rind; 1 t. crushed tarragon leaves.

Beat marinade ingredients with a rotary beater. Set aside for 1 hour. Meanwhile, arrange six of each of the following combinations on bamboo skewers;

Pitted dates stuffed with sliced sweet midget gherkin and pimiento.

Cooked shrimp (still firm) wrapped in thin slice of salami.

Baby franks with chunks of unpeeled red apple.

Parboiled unpeeled eggplant and large mushrooms.

Pineapple tidbits surrounded with lean bacon, cut in half.

Marinate 3 hours in refrigerator. Turn occasionally. Drain. Grill over hot coals about 5 minutes, turning to brown evenly and brushing with marinade. Or broil until done without burning. Serve while hot on party French bread.

Chafing dishes make gleaming conversation pieces. Swedish meat balls in miniature come canned in a spicy sauce. Two-inch skewers stand by in "pony" glasses. Serve hot.

Another savory cheese dish smacking of Texas and Mexico is this Queso Rio Grande: Mince 1 onion, 1 garlic clove, saute in butter. Add one No. 2 can tomatoes, 1 small can chile jalapenos. Simmer the onion, garlic, tomatoes and chiles until soft.

Just before serving, add 1 lb. grated brick of Velveeta cheese. Let it harden before grating. Stir and do not prepare too far ahead. Keep hot and stir often on electric table server or chafing dish. If this is not up to the Rio Grande standard, add cayenne or chili powder although your guests probably would appreciate a mild version.

Pepitas (Mexican pumpkin seeds), banana and coconut chips also add a South of the Border touch along with canned miniature enchiladas and tamales. Rolled tortillas are effective when dipped into Mexican bean puree.

Individual Chinese egg rolls (frozen) are always relished. Serve hot with a dipping sauce of mustard mixed with powdered ginger and ketchup. Japanese Chicken Drumsticks are very much in evidence at holiday cocktail gatherings. Use the smallest size frozen chicken drumsticks. Defrost. Soak all day of party in a mixture of Kikkoman Japanese soy sauce with fresh lemon or lime juice, a garlic clove put through press or mashed and chopped crystallized ginger. An hour before cooking, drain chicken legs, saving sauce. Shake a few drumsticks at a time in brown paper bag containing flour, salt and paprika. Coat each piece.

Fry in heavy skillet in hot shortening. Turn and brown on all sides until cooked through but do not scorch. Drain on paper towels. Serve warm, each leg dressed in its own pantalette (frilled foil "holder" you can easily make yourself in advance). Have a bowl of the Japanese sauce nearby for easy dunking, plus plenty of paper napkins.

Defrosted, breaded, fantail shrimp are quickly sauteed then drained and dipped into this same exotic sauce.

German Liverwurst Loaf is made from highly seasoned liverwurst. Use dry red wine, cayenne, Worcestershire, fresh lemon juice, salt, pepper, and grated onion to taste. Beat in enough sour cream for spreading consistency. Refrigerate. Two days before your party hollow out a round loaf of rye bread. Let this container become dry. When ready to serve, fill with the seasoned liverwurst paste. Have butter spreaders available so guests can make their own canapes with rye krisp. Radish roses are often dipped into the same mixture.

CAVITY CONFERENCE — The Dentist, The Patient, The Nurse and The Friend discuss oral differences in a hilarious scene from "Cactus Flower" which opened Friday at the Studio Theater-Restaurant. The dentist is Richard Klein, Shirley Swanger is Mrs. Dixon Durant, Suz Newell is the prim nurse, and Richard E. Soden is the friend. Zane photo

'Cactus Flower' is broad farce in French tradition at Studio Theater-Cafe.

Abe Burrows is one of the finest craftsmen in show business.

He's written radio and tv shows for every major comic in the business, and has even had a radio show of his own.

But his masterpiece has just got to be "Cactus Flower" which opened at the Studio Theater-Restaurant on Friday.

For sheer dialogue, this is the funniest vehicle we have seen on the Peninsula for ages. There is little "funny" acting, the comedy is carried on the shoulders of the verbal interplay of the characters.

The play was a difficult one to stage for the small area of the Studio, since there are 15 scenes.

But Bob Evans met the challenge with a cleverly designed revolving stage carrying two scenes, and playing two more scenes out on the right and left stage.

Watching the stage in action was almost as much fun as the play, but not quite.

The comedy is the broadcast kind of farce, and the characters have been most happily cast.

Richard Klein, a newcomer to the area making his second appearance, is an accomplished, polished and thoroughly professional actor.

He portrays his character with a minimum of motion, and those he uses are the natural, everyday movements you would expect from, in this case, a dentist. Even the way he puts his hands into his pockets is expressive.

Suz Newell, no stranger to local theatergoers plays the dentist's nurse — a prim, efficient Plain Jane who like the cactus, occasionally puts forth a lovely flower. She is deliciously snide in her attitudes toward her boss.

The dentist drafts his nurse to masquerade as his wife and get him out of a problem he has created for himself with some plain and fancy lying.

Marianne Wagner is the girl friend the dentist first wants to marry, then get rid of. She is lissome and sexy and provocative and attractive and everything a "girl friend" should be.

Roger Parks plays Igor Sullivan, a beatnik type who is a struggling writer nad lives next door to the dentist's girl friend.

Stir in Richard E. Soden as the dentist's long-time friend, Harvey Greenfield; Shirley Swager as one of the dentist's wealthy patients; Sanders Watkins as Senor Sanchez and Monica E. Brueni as Botticelli's Springtime, add some implausible, impossible but absolutely excruciatingly funny situations, and you have an evening of hilarious entertainment.

We just can't get over what a great job the production staff has done in staging "Cactus Flower."

Bob Evens, Jeff Olinger the stage manager and Michele Evans, Ron Hudson and Richard Vargas, who constructed the sets, all deserve a huge credit.

Bill Asp's direction is outstanding since much of the humor depends on the pacing.

"Cactus Flower" plays weekends at the Studio, with an 8:30 curtain Friday and Saturday, on Sunday one hour earlier.

'Light Up the Sky' proves happy show biz comedy by Community Theater

by crb

There were a couple of empty seats in the Circle Theater Friday for the opening of Moss Hart's "Light Up the Sky," and people who didn't sit there are going to be sorry.

"Light Up the Sky" is a hilarious look at the inside of show business — in particular the writing, directing and acting of a legitimate stage production.

The Circle Theater presentation is a true comedy hit because of the deft direction of Zelma Weinfield and excellent performances turned in by the 10-member cast headed by Carmel Little-Theater regulars Rod Allison, Ed Shinbrot and Joyce Malikoff.

"Light Up the Sky" concerns a try-out performance of a future Broadway play in Boston. Jerry Van Steenbergen as the new play's director Carleton Fitzgerald makes a recurring single line — "I could cry" — into one of the funniest comedy bits we've seen on the stage in a long time.

Sally Kolitz as an ice-skating star and wife of Ed Shibrot is a completely believable Brooklyn-accented character, and a gin rummy partner for Loleta Shepherd as Stella Livingston, mother of the star.

Miss Shepherd turns in a lusty, laugh-provoking performance as the captions mother of the tempermental Irene Livingston. Joyce Malikoff is teary, bleary and sometimes hateful as Irene, and a sheer delight when she is onstage.

Johnny Clark is cast as the young author, Peter Sloan, and Rod Allison is suave, sophisticated and cynical as the aging playwright who views the entire proceedings with the jaundiced eye of one who has been through it all himself.

Allison is outstanding in the role. This young actor is one of the most effective performers in the area.

And we want to see a lot more of Johnny Clark, who brings freshness and spontaneuity to the part of the young, idealistic scrivner of plays.

And then there is Ed Shinbrot as Sidney Black.

There is no doubt that Ed Shinbrot is one of the mainstays of little theater on the Peninsula. His credit list is as long as your arm, and he's never turned in a bad performance.

He is doubley outstanding in this theater farce in the role of the "angel" of the play, concerned over the "three thousand bucks" he has sunk in what, after its opening, is apparently a turkey.

He s the eptiome of the loud, cigar-chewing, self-made near racketeer who has a Midas touch for everything into which he sinks his money.

Linda Zimmerman as Miss Lowell, the secretary, Peter Walters as the husband of Irene Livingston, and Pete Hanson as the only sober Shriner at the convention all turn in sincere performances.

"Light Up the Sky" is one of Moss Hart's best efforts, and the Circle production does it credit.

The play runs weekends until February, with 8:30 p.m. curtains on Friday and Saturday, one hour earlier on Sunday.

Movie Review

Barbarella — Jane Fonda is a super-astronaut in the year 40,000 who charges about with a death-ray gun looking for a misfit she had been assigned to kill. She makes lots of love, but does little killing. At the Hill.

Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid — Paul Newman and Robert Redford are western outlaws whose day has passed. A comedy of anticlimaxes with superb photography, a folk-tale touch and a violent conclusion. At the Village in Carmel.

Never a Dull Moment — Walt Disney stars Dick Van Dyke, Edward G. Robinson and Dorothy Provine in a psychological comedy. At the Grove.

Bob and Carol and Ted and Alice — An irreverent social satire, slick in its trimmings and backgrounds with a sharp bite in its characters, dialogue and frank appraisal of modern marriage and mores. Golden Bough.

On Her Majesty's Secret Service — The new James Bond, George Lazenby, skiis and bobslees after the villainous chief of Spectre and takes his first plunge into matrimony with T.V.'s former Avenger, Diana Rigg. At the State.

101 Dalmations — The sinister Cruella Daville plots to capture the 101 Dalmations in Walt Disney's delightful animated re-issue playing at Valley Cinema.

Inga — Swedish. Sexy. Nudity. Money maker. Story of a young Swedish girl's introduction to a philosophy of free sexual indulgence. At the Hill.

Easy Rider — Latest motorcycle epic stars Peter Fonda and Dennis Hopper as hip-types in search of America. Aspects involving drugs and sex and long emphasis on traveling sequences make much of the ballyhoo that has greeted this film. Playing at Marina Auto.

Sam Whiskey — A western comedy with Burt Reynolds who agrees to return stolen gold to U.S. mint, and Angie Dickinson who tries to save her family's honor by returning stolen gold bullion to the mint. At the Village.

Darby O'Gill and the Little People — A Walt Disney release that tells the story of elderly Irish caretaker Darby O'Gill (Albert Sharpe) and his adventures in the under-mountain hall of the leprechauns. At the Grove.

CACTUS FLOWER

With Bob Wood In Sacramento

There can be no excuse for students at the nine University of alifornia and 18 state college campuses not knowing the rules of campus conduct and penalties for violations.

A 16-page pamphlet relating to University policies, student organizations, and the use of University facilities, has been distributed by officials to all campuses. This resulted from a legislative investigation of last year's campus disorders, when students were quoted as saying they were "not acquainted" with campus rules of conduct.

If you will recall, the legislature passed bills during the last legislative session to give university and college administrators additional tools to maintain campus rules of conduct. As a result of these new laws, which are now effective, the responsibility for maintaining campus order falls on the shoulders of university and college administrators.

The pamphlet rule book states that a student assumes an obligation to "conduct himself in a manner compatible with the university's function as an educational institution." It provides discipline for violations of campus rules and regulations, ranging from a simple warning to expulsion, which is permanent termination of student status without the possibility of re-admission.

The new program of the administrators of UC and the state colleges clearly spells out student rules of conduct and penalties for their violation. The administrators state that hereafter no student should have an "alibi" that he has not been warned of campus rules.

The thrust of these recommendations is to provide an orderly educational process.

Last Tuesday I was fortunate in having a chance to attend the dedication ceremonies of the Portola-Crespi cross, the beautiful new redwood cross hewn by the amiable and well-liked Harry Downie, Curator of the Carmel Mission. The new cross now stands at approximately the same spot where the early Portola expeditionary group placed its cross exactly two hundred years ago.

Father Maynard Geiger, archivist of the Santa Barbara Mission, and an authority on Junipero Serra, spoke to quite a large group of us who had gathered around the cross. At one point during this most interesting narration Father Geiger mentioned that when the group of riders returned to San Diego, they complained that they themselves smelled like mules.

He stated that history notes this was due to the fact that the men had to destroy the mules they were riding — they ran out of food and mule meat was the only nutration available and they were forced to take these measures.

As far as smelling like a mule is concerned, I feel I can honestly sympathize with these early explorers of 200 years ago.

The preceding Saturday I joined 175 other riders on the trip from Salinas to Monterey. My friend Harry Casey from King City brought along two pack mules, or burros, but he had four children of his own to keep an eye on so I spent most of the trip trying to lead, pull and coerce his two pack mules into having a loook at the seashore.

By the time I had untangled them from each other several times, readjusted the packs and nursed them through Fort Ord, I smelled more like a mule than a State Assemblyman should smell.

And, I am sure the few passengers sitting in the rear section of United's 2:15 p.m. flight to Oakland will concur. I had to go from horse to plane without a chance to bathe!

Enough for now . . . .

Del Monte to control Center

A lease-back arrangement under which Del Monte Properties Company assumes full management and financial control of Del Monte Shopping Center was announced this week by A. G. Michaud, president of the company.

The lease agreement was signed with Bernard A. Osher, owner of the center. He acquired title to the center through foreclosure proceedings last October.

Del Monte owns the land on which the center is located. Under lease Osher becomes the owners of the buildings and other facilities.

The center was in receivership until Osher acquired title.

"For the first time in the center's history, long-term management and leasing has been returned to the Peninsula through Del Monte Properties Company," Michaud said in making the announcement.

"It is a significant step for the growth of retailing on the Peninsula and a step forward, we think, for the economic health of Del Monte Center," he said. "Del Monte management will be working closely with the merchants association of the center to assure a prosperous 1970."

The Del Monte president said his company has the first refusal to purchase Osher's interest during the 20-year period of the lease.

Wounded GIs at Ord may have merry yule

Hospitalized soldiers at Fort Ord who are unable to go home for the Holidays will be given an opportunity for a Merry Christmas by having their families come visit them here.

Through the efforts of Monterey Peninsula Service Clubs, coordinated by the Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce, the families of wounded Vietnam returnees will be invited to spend at least one night and Christmas Day here, with their travel, ldoging and meals provided.

Monterey Mayor Al J. Madden organized a meeting of the Men's Service Clubs representatives to discuss the idea and there was an enthusiastic response.

Definite plans have been rapidiy developed to host the families.

Among service clubs which have definitely made committments to assist is the Carmel Lions Club.

Math 'Brush up' for teachers

For the third straight summer, 50 secondary school teachers will have the chance to "brush up" on mathematics, thanks to a National Science Foundation grant in the amount of $58,165 to the School of Natural Sciences and Mathematics at San Jose State College.

The money will provide stipends for a six-week Summer Institute at SJSC beginning June 22-July 31, 1970.

LAST WEEK I almost got a ticket for speeding. I talked the officer out of it very easily though. He told me I was going 70 miles an hour. I merely explained to him that I didn't even realize that there were that many miles in an hour.

I do realize, however, that with Christmas shopping now over, wise women shoppers are looking for bargains. And these women all know that the place to go for unsurpassed savings on fine women's wear is Joanne Boutique in Carmel Valley (Opposite the post office, next to the the pharmacy.) This traditional store-wide year-end sale starts Dec. 28th. Here you can save as much as 50% on such outstanding apparel as Mr. Robert dresses, Talbott knits, Lanson rainwear, just to name a few. Come out early and avoid the rush. In the meantime, joy to all from Joanne and everybody at Joanne Boutique.

Who is this lady?

A. Little Orphan Annie
B. The Jolly Green Giantess
C. Miss Liberty
D. Mae West

If you picked anything other than C, well, you're in a whole lot of trouble.

Sure, you probably picked the Statue of Liberty. Everybody knows who she is and what she stands for.

Or do they?

It's amazing how many of us take this proud lady of the New York Harbor for granted.

We should know that her proper name is "Liberty Enlightening the World." That she symbolizes the triumph of freedom over tyranny. That she is a declaration of our independence.

Of course, we need more than statues to remind us of our freedom. We need action, by each and every one of us.

And that's where U.S. Savings Bonds come in. They help preserve that thing called freedom.

They help make this country of ours economically stronger to tackle some of the problems that face us.

And, buying Savings Bonds can be easy and automatic. All you have to do is join the Payroll Savings Plan where you work, or the Bond-a-Month Plan where you bank. And then you can sit back and forget 'em while the money piles up.

So think about the freedoms we enjoy. And think about U.S. Savings Bonds as a way to keep us free.

As for Miss Liberty, well, when you're in New York go up and see her sometime.

If they're lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace 'em.

The Dreamers

Star-dazed dreamers walk
Alone through flowers by the seas
To hear celestial music on Every errant breeze

They go barefoot across the sand
To breathe the salty spray
And reach with all within them for
The breaking of the day;

When all will know
There never was
A seperateness of man

And find that Peace
That few, as yet,
Have learned to understand.

My Christmas Star

There's a crack in my wall
Where a star shines through;
A star and a bit of sky;
And the winds of heaven
May enter there
When the storm-clouds hurry by.
Let me be unaware of the shattered boards
May my vision focus far,
That cognizant of Eternal Truth
I see but the sky
And the Star.

To a Sea Gull

With love for you
I watch you fly
Between the blue
Of sea and sky.

Where heaven gleams
And wild wind sings,
You bear my dreams
On silver wings.

Your shrill cry wakes
Deep joy in me,
Your soaring makes
My spirit free.

To a Neighbor

The day they climbed up the massive eucalyptus tree,
with saws.
The shade for our crab-apple and bamboo was gone.
But afterward, we found their pale ochre leaves scattered in the garden, and gathered
in our green tomato plant.
We wonder why they,
killed our friend of darkness.
I think, they died that summer, too.

Consumer Power

By Yvonne Earnst

I hope you ahve been to the Thinker Toys at Seventh and San Carlos to see their wonderful collection of toys for all ages.

This new store is a welcome addition to our community, carrying the very highest quality toys and games.

And the surprising thing is that these toys are no more expensive than the poorly constructed, gimmic-ridden toys that are routinely offered to consumers.

There are, as a matter of fact, a wide selection of toys in the 75 cents to $3.50 range.

Of course, there are many more that are more expensive than that, but, at least the quality is well worth the price.

Let's review briefly some of the guidelines suggested in the last two Consumer Power columns.

Swing your buying power to toys that meet your high standards.

Keep all receipts, and return to the store or manufactuer any toy that breaks down quickly or unaccountably.

When buying dolls, buy one that does nothing but just "love back." Buy a cuddly doll for a smaller child.

Thinker Toys has Creative Plaything's sheepskin "baby" for $4. Just touch it.

For $10, they also have a soft, beautifully made soft cloth doll.

And then, there are the wistfully beautiful Sasha dolls, including a boy doll.

Buy real musical instruments.

Buy action toys that require a child to use his body.

Consider buying no toy that does "everything" for a child.

Let him use his resourceful imagination.

Consider buying no war toys. Think of the meaning of Christmas.

Buy one or two good books, with the advice of a librarian, rather than many dull books.

Buy no toy that is too advanced for the child.

Visualize a toy in use before buying it.

Buy raw materials, tools and craft books rather than ready-to-build kits.

Consider giving practical items such a simple cameras, tape recorders, sleeping bags, scrapbooks, seeds or plants and tools, stationery.

Buy records by artists such as Danny Kaye, Maruice Evans, Burl Ives. Children love them.

Buy no game that you would not be willing to play. If it's boring to you, it's boring to a child.

Consider buying toys that encourage an interest in science.

You should also consider buying "the real ting," instead of the imitation, which brings us up to where we stopped last week.

Now, what do you do if you have already purchased some toys with which you are critically unahappy? If you have the receipt, and the toy is untouched, why not return it? Just don't wait until Christmas Eve to do it.

Give the merchant a chance to sell the "gimmicky" toy to some unsuspecting and unenlightened consumer, with our apologies. Maybe next year, we'll reach that consumer too.

And if you have a child on your gift list who has too much already, and you don't care to add to his toy collection, perhaps you might like this suggestion. Every Christmas, we send our godson a Christmas ornament – for which we "shop" any time of the year. He has a stuffed miniature horse from Taiwan, a paper mache "muchacho" from Mexico, and another horse of paper mache from Japan. When he marries the ornaments are to leave the family collection, and go with him to his new home.

This is a lovingly chosen gift which we hope he will cherish for many years.

Do you have such a child on your list? Or a teenager? Or even an adult?

Happy Christmas Shopping!

PG&E requests 9½% rate hike

Pacific Gas and Electric Company has applied for its first electric rate increase in 12 years, citing inflation and high cost of money for expansion as the major causes.

If authorized by the California Public Utilities Commission, the rate increase would amount to about four cents per day for the average residential customer.

The overall increase in rates would be about 9½ per cent and would produce $67.4 million additional annual revenue from the more than 2.5 million electric customers PG&E serves in Northern and Central California.

If granted this would be the first increase in PG&E electric rates since 1957. Since then, PG&E's annual charges for electricity, based on current sales, have been reduced by a total of $33 million.

Midnight Mass at Mission San Antonio

Mission San Antonio, near the town of Jolon, will once again be the setting for a unique Christmas observance on Wednesday, Dec. 24.

The Old Mission, which has preserved much of the peace and beuty of its earliest days, will be illumined by flickering torchlights as visitors from far and near join with costumed shepherds in a torchlight procession through the mission arches and gardens to the entrance of the historic church.

There the participants will pause before a traditional Nativity Crib with life-size figures of the Holy Family and living animals. Threre an ancient ceremony, the Blessing of the Crib, will take place before the particpants enter the Old Mission Church for the Christmas Midnight Mass in which all will raise their voices in songs of praise and thanksgiving.

The annual event – which attracts persons of all faiths – is all the more inspiring because the Old Mission San Antonio has retained much of the peace and beauty of early California days.

Set in the picturesque Valley of the Oaks, cradled by the Santa Lucia mountains, guarded by Serra Peak, the Old Mission's surroundings are much as they were when, in 1771, Padre Junipero Serra called the Indians to worship by ringing the bell he had hung from an oak tree.

Those of all faiths are invited to attend and participate in the torchlight procession, which begins at 11:30 p.m., and in the Midnight Mass.

The Old Mission is reached from the north by Highway 101, turning west on Jolon Road above King City; and from the south by Highway 101 to a turn-off above Bradley.

Food comes to Spyglass Hill

It has often been said that if Spyglass Hill doesn't kill you, the lack of a place to eat will.

For the hungry hacker, California's number one rated golf course was the resting place of the famished.

Skeleton Island was where he ran out of Hersey bars rather than golf balls, and Black Dog was what Nathan's Famous covered up with mustard.

But no more.

At last food has come to Spyglass Hill.

Now Skeleton Island is a full stomached five iron, and Black Dog just an unreachable par four.

Serving from sun-up to sun-down, the new Spyglass Grill, located beside the ninth green, offers an early bird breakfast of juice, ham, or bacon and scrambled eggs. Also on the menu is a day-long choice of burgers, sandwiches, soup and beverages.

Operated by Del Monte Properties Company, the new Spyglass restaurant officially opens for the public on Friday, December 19.

The club house for members only, remains so...

Padre Trails shutterbugs' annual Christmas party

The Padre Trails Camera Club held its annual Christmas celebration on Dec. 13 at the House of the Four Winds.

It was not just another Christmas party, but a Lucllian feast with each cook in the group doing her "thing" for the luscious buffet. More than fifty members and friends sat at long tables decked with boughs of holly and red candles.

Mrs. Arthur Thorsen of Pacific Grove was in general charge.

Following dinner there was a feast of another kind – a viewing of Around the World with P.S.A. (Photographic Society of America), top flight color slides from various spots over the world – Thailand, New Zealand, Hong Kong, Ireland, Japan, among others. It was an educational as well as enjoyable experience for the color slide enthusiasts.

Padre Trails Camera Club is embarking on a new year. The new officers are: Thomas J. Hardy, president; Glenn E. Mills, vice president; Mrs. Ernestine Mills, secretary; Philip C. Brown, treasurer, all of Monterey. Meetins are held twice a month on the first and third Thursdays, at Carmel High School (Brey Hall).

The club membership covers the peninsula and is open to all who have skill and interest – or even just a hope – in the area of color photography.

Party Plans

Cottage cheese called weisskaese is seasoned with grated onion, chopped chives, sour cream and caraway seeds. Everyone makes their own open face sandwiches with thinly sliced pumpernickel and rye bread. Westphalia ham and bratwurst sausages are sliced into paper-thin pink morsels.

Brandied Baked Ham

One whole ham; whole cloves; 1 cup brandy, divided; 1 cup light brown sugar.

Cook-before-eating ham: Unwrap; place on rack in shallow roasting pan, fat side up. Bake at 325 F. according to timetable. Three quarters of an hour before ham is done, remove from oven. Trim off any rind; score fat in squares or diamonds; stud each square with whole clove. Pour off excess fat. Baste ham surface with ½ cup brandy. Bake 30 min., basting once at end of 15 min. with pan juices. Meanwhile blend ¼ cup brandy with brown sugar.

Remove ham from oven; baste with remaining brandy. Spread with brown sugar mixture. Return to oven; bake 15 min. longer or until glazed. Garnish this succulent and fragrant ham with frosted grapes, crabapples and brandied peaches. Use uncooked, or cooked, ready-to-serve ham (already skinned) or canned ham. It will be the mainstay of the party.

As for drinks, what is better than iced champagne, with perhaps a touch of grenadine or brandy?

Urge establishment of city regulations on minimums for business, dwelling lots

by GUNNAR NORBERG

Are you one of those who have been concerned about the possibility of high-rise hotel development beside the rustic, low-rise buildings at the state-owned Asilomar Conference Grounds near Pacific Grove?

If you are – and if you are a Carmelite – you might think about the possibility of huge business structures inside the business district of Carmel. Certainly there isn't any danger of such structures, is there?

Not right now. But there could be – next month, next year – if we don't take steps in time to anticipate it.

More than two years ago – at the beginning of the year 1967 – the City Council directed the City Planning Commission to study and report upon two proposals which could erect formidable barriers against any future proposals to build huge business structures.

What disposition was made of the proposals?

None. The City Planning Commission has simply been too busy with day-to-day matters to proceed with a study of the proposals to control both the sizes of business buildings and the sizes and uses of business building sites. Meanwhile the day may be approaching when some outside organization may seek to establish some kind of outsized business development in Carmel.

Back in 1967, when the City Council directed its Planning Commission to initiate a report on the limiting of business buildings and the sites upon which they might be erected, certain large business structures were being completed at the Carmel Rancho.

The two proposals referred to the Planning Commission were not New – even in 1967 – for they had been first proposed to the City Council more than ten years ago.

One proposal concerend the maximum size of a business building site, and the proportion of that site which could be occupied by the business building. The proposal, originally made by Admiral C. W. Fisher (USN Ret.) president of the Carmel Citizens' Committee, suggested that the maximum allowable size of a business building site, should be 8,000 square feet, and the maximum percentage of the site to be used by the business building to be located upon it, should be no more than 70 percent of the site area.

The other proposal was presented in two parts. Both parts concerned motels. The actual terminology is "multiple dwellings" – of which Carmel already had – back in 1967 – enough to house more than 2,000 trnasients overnight.

The first part of the "multiple-dwelling" control proposal, is a density control mechanism. According to this proposal, the restriction proposed would have said that "no multiple dwelling may be erected within one block, or 500 feet, whichever is farther, of another multiple dwelling." Because of the way existing motels were situated, with respect to each other, this would have had the effect of drastically limiting any future motel building. It would, of course, have had the incidental effect of protecting the interests of motels already established here, but – more importantly – it would have helped Carmel, in the future, to protect itself against a kind of out-of-scale future business development proposal, which might threaten what Admiral Fisher has appropriately called its "small, intimate, charming character."

The second part of the "multiple dwelling" control proposal would have increased the number of square feet of land area which have had to be assigned to each "multiple dwelling" unit – meaning, usually, each bedroom and bath. At present the yardstick is 1,000 square feet per dwelling unit – meaning, again, per bedroom and bath. This means that – on the usual 4,000 – square-foot business building site, a motel can rent out just four bedrooms-and-baths.

The suggested revision of this 1,000-square-feet-per-dwelling-unit requirement, proposed that it be increased either to 1,500-square-feet or to 2,000-square-feet per such unit. The intent of this requirement would be erect an economic barrier against additional motel building here in Carmel, and thus to build a higher restriction against such building.

If there were to be any doubt about the right of the City of Carmel to establish the kind of controls envisaged by the proposals referred to the Planning Commission back in 1967, the purpose clause of the City's zoning law – which dates back to 1929 – resolves that doubt.

Section 1300 of the Municipal Code establishes Carmel's character and states:

"The City of Carmel-by-the-Sea is hereby determined to be primarily, essentially, and predominantly a residential City wherein business and commerce have in the past, are now, and are proposed to be in the future, subordinated to its residential character . . . ."

While there is, right now, no immediate grave threat to what Admiral Fisher has called the "small, intimate, charming" character of Carmel, such a threat could be just beyond the horizon.

It is, therefor, time – and past time – that the Planning Commission study and report upon the proposals mentioned here, which were referred to it more than two years ago by the City Council. It is also time – and past time – for the Carmel Citizens' Committee which in the past so ardently supported the concept of added controls of business buildings and business building sites, to urge the City Council to establish such controls before any of the feared perils approach the City's doors.

A Merry Christmas and a Prosperous New Year

Stumped -- For Christmas We Are -- but actually more for the New Year

In the past few months our investors have raised almost $250,000 cash as down payment on rental income units.

THE STUMP: Demand is greater now for investments properties than before.

Investors are pleading for suitable properties of all sizes.

IF you need some cash fairly soon – for any reason –

IF you want to get out of managing your present properties –

IF you want to enjoy a carefree retirement with a steady monthly income –

IF you are not sure as to how the NEW TAX PROGRAM concerns you, your properties, and your investments –

IT WOULD BE WELL TO let us analyze your properties and see how they rate on today's demanding market.

We can not come to you for we are not familiar with your problems and your desires. A telephone call can arrange an appointment, anywhere, at a convenienct time to discuss your investment problems. Ask for either Harold or Joe. Use some of the Holiday Season to plan ahead for next year.

CARMEL POINT! – First time on the market, this attractive, custom-built home on a sunny, artistically planted 60' site. The living room has an extra high open-beam ceiling, the brick fireplace wall extends the full heighth, and there are sliding glass doors opening onto a spacious deck. There are 3 bedrooms, 2 baths, an easy-to-work-in kitchen and a service room. See this at $52,500! Exclusive.

PRICE SLASHED – For a sale this year only. Panoramic ocean view lot top of Carmel Woods. Now $17,500!

TWO FOR THE PRICE OF ONE! – A rare opportunity to acquire a two-unit property in a prime south of Ocean Ave. location just 3 blocks to the beach. There is a wonderful large family home (two-story brown shingle) with 4 bedrooms, 3½ baths, a 33' living room with ocean view, and a family-style kitchen with new avacado-toned equipment. The second unit is a newer and charming complete one-bedroom garden cottage with fireplace. The value is here at $59,500 and liberal financing is available.
MERRY CHRISTMAS TO ALL!
